PHARMACIST'S WENDY EWING

I love precise measuring, weighing and labelling of medicines in my pharmacy in SA. Maths is part of a recipe just as it's part of inclusive care. Whether it's determining the appropriate dose to give to a patient or calculating how long a medication will be in a patient's body, maths is vital to all facets of pharmacy.

My high school maths teacher used to say that 'maths makes sense'. There's always an answer when maths is involved. This plays a vital role in reducing medication error, but I confess it doesn't prevent the occasional cooking disaster!
